Rec. bridge to be dedicated, opened for use on Oct. 8

By MICHAEL DANIELS

After years of wishing and hoping, and still more of pre-construction false starts and disheartening delays, Bethel area snowmobilers will this winter finally have a safe, even scenic, way to cross the Androscoggin River.

The new multi-use recreational bridge, located just downriver from the present traffic bridge, will be dedicated Saturday, Oct. 8.

Governor John Baldacci is expected to be on hand for the 3 p.m. ribbon-cutting ceremony on the Bethel side, and then to lead a walk across to the campground side, where light refreshments will be served.

Following the ceremony the bridge will be open for pedestrians, cyclists and folks who might just like a new view of the river.

And when snow falls, it will be available for cross-country skiers and, of course, snowmobilers, who were the original proponents of such a bridge — as a safe alternative to crossing the river on the Route 2 traffic bridge, where they had to share the narrow roadway with speeding tourist and truck traffic.

Making the bridge a reality took not only years of lobbying and meetings, but also growing recognition at the state and local level of the burgeoning economic importance of snowmobiling, as well as several forms of non-motorized recreation, such as bicycling, cross-country skiing, rollerblading and rollerskiing.

The new bridge is expected to be a key link to a future, expanded multi-use recreational trail system in the Bethel

SAD44 school hours to be shifted again

Day will start earlier, to reduce classtime missed by Telstar teams

By ALISON ALOISIO

After hearing concerns about Telstar athletes missing too much class time, the School Board Monday voted to shift the current schedule of all SAD44 schools to half an hour earlier.

The change, described by Superintendent Dave Murphy as "a mid-course correction," will take effect Tuesday, Oct. 11.

He said the hours for Telstar will change to approximately 7:40 a.m. to 2:20 p.m., and elementary schools will shift to about 7:55 a.m. to 2:35 p.m.

Bus run adjustment
For the past seven years, the district had operated separate runs for younger and older students. The older students went to school on the earlier run of the day.

But this year, as a cost-saving measure, elementary and secondary students returned to sharing bus rides to school. And the school schedules had to change to accommodate elementary and secondary students arriving and departing school at about the same time. Classes at Telstar now let out at 2:50 p.m., about an hour later than last year.

As a result, sports teams now must miss more class time than in previous years to travel to away games, Murphy said.

"[The schedule] has worked well for 900 students, but 200 are getting penalized," Murphy said.

He said he had heard from some parents of athletes, including Rick Whitney of Bethel, who wrote to school directors about his concerns. Whitney attended Monday's board meeting.

"We haven't had many complaints about it, but it was obviously impacting kids in a negative way," said Murphy. "The kids were missing academic time."

He said about one-third of the middle/high school population is affected.

G'wood postpones meeting on ordinance revisions

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Greenwood officials have postponed a planned special Town Meeting to take up proposed changes to the town's Subdivision and Land Use Ordinances and the adoption of a new Site Plan Ordinance.

The meeting had tentatively been planned for Tuesday, Oct. 4, but following a public hearing last week, selectmen decided the proposed ordinance

HANDLING HAZMAT WASTE SAFELY

Workers from Environmental Projects Inc. of Gray dispose of hazardous waste during the local collection day, Saturday, at the SAD44 garage. A VIEW OF THE NEAR PAST, AND THE VERY DEEP PAST

Maine Mineralogy Expeditions is now offering tours of the old Bumpus Mine in Albany. Visitors learn about the 20th-century mining operations, as well as the geology that created the minerals and gems found there. Here, guide Seabury Lyon points out rock formations on the ceiling of a 100-foot-deep shaft. With him are Sue Columbia and Lisa Arguin of New Hampshire.

Bumpus Mine reopened as historical site

By ALISON ALOISIO

The world's largest known beryl crystal is gone. So are tons of feldspar and beryl taken over decades of mining.

But the remains of the Bumpus Mine in Albany came back to life this year, opened to the public in the geological equivalent of a museum.

The mine, located just off Route 5, was originally owned by the Harry Bumpus family. It began operating in 1927.

Feldspar and beryl were the biggest "cash crop" minerals, according to Seabury Lyon, who now helps manage the mine.

Feldspar has industrial uses, while beryl is the main source of the metal beryllium.

In the 1930s, the largest crystal of beryl ever discovered was found there. It is now on display at the Museum of Natural History in New York.

The company that reopened the mine hopes to collect old drilling and blasting equipment, and perhaps a dump truck from the 1930s or '40s.

The mine stopped operating in the late 1960s, when it was no longer cost-effective.

Earlier this year, the mine was sold to the Stifler family of Massachusetts, Lyon said. The family also owns a home in Albany.

The Stiflers wanted the mine to be preserved for its historical value, said Lyon, and wanted the public to be able to enjoy it.

The result was "Maine Mineralogy Expeditions," a company formed by local residents Jim Mann, Jeff Parsons and Lyon. The group manages the mine and gives tours. Bookings are done through Parsons' Bethel Outdoor Adventure.

A four-hour tour allows visitors to collect rock specimens and learn the geology that created them. And in the coming months and years, the partners expect to have some of the old mining equipment on display.

They hope to collect old drilling and blasting equipment, and maybe a dump truck from the 1930s or '40s.

"Our emphasis is on education," said Lyon. "It's more than just going out and picking rocks."

School groups are also welcome on tours, he said.

Lyon said that Mann, owner of Mt. Mann Jewelers in Bethel, had been trying for years to

W'stock takes stock of village hydrants

Following loss of Birch Street dry hydrant to snow plow

By ALISON ALOISIO

Prompted by the loss of a fire hydrant last winter, Woodstock officials are considering the overall hydrant situation in Bryant Pond Village.

A dry hydrant (with no water pressure) on Birch Street was destroyed during snow plowing, Town Manager Vern Maxfield said.

It was one of several dry hydrants in the town.

A suggestion was made at last week's selectmen's meeting to put a new, pressurized hydrant on Main Street, in the area of the Baptist Church. Water could be pumped from a small pond across the street from the church.

A pump house could be placed next to the hydrant, with a switch to turn on the pump.

Selectman Bruce Korhonen spoke in favor of a hydrant equipped with a pump.

"It's better than dumping money into a dry hydrant," he said.

Inman was asked to research the cost of installing the new hydrant.

The chief said the town could then decide whether to install the new hydrant in place of the Birch Street one. Another

SCHOOL DISTRICT TIME SHIFT

To the Editor:
To SAD44 Parents, Students and Community Members:
As you are probably aware, the beginning of this school year saw a return to single bus runs for the pupils of this district. In an attempt to best meet the needs of our students, a new schedule was developed in an effort to maximize learning opportunities within the school day and to address previously expressed concerns around student sleep time at the middle and high school levels. When the new hours were presented to the Board, it was understood that this schedule would need to be reviewed after the first few weeks of school to see if any adjustments would be necessary.

During the initial weeks of school, it became apparent that although the new schedule seemed to be very effective for the majority of our students, there were many children negatively impacted due to the later end time at the Telstar complex. With nearly a third of the Middle and High school students now participating in some type of after-school activity, many of these children were missing academic time at the end of the school day. Although there can always be some expectation that students will need to be released early due to scheduled away games or other similar events, the impact on student learning seen during the first few weeks of school was not acceptable. This resulted in a reconsideration of the school day.

At the Sept. 26 School Board meeting, the Board approved a modification to the schedule that will go into effect on Oct. 11. The decision to implement the change on that date was intended to provide the district with enough time to communicate the new hours to the community and to allow time for any adjustments that individual families might need to make. The adjusted student schedule will be as follows: Telstar Middle and High School — 7:40 a.m. to 2:20 p.m.; Andover, Crescent Park and Woodstock: 7:55 a.m. to 2:35 p.m.

This new schedule reflects a start time that is a compromise between the Telstar and elementary school start times from last year. It also improves on the efforts made to maximize the instructional opportunities available during the school day. We believe that making this change at this time in the school year will be beneficial to our students.

Please be assured that every effort will be made by SAD44 to make this adjustment as smooth as possible. Your assistance in this effort will be greatly appreciated.

INVITATION TO BRIDGE DEDICATION

To the Editor:
Everyone from the Bethel area community is welcomed to attend the official ribbon-cutting dedication of the new multi-use recreational bridge. The ceremony will be held on Saturday, Oct. 8, shortly after 3 p.m. The Honorable Governor John Baldacci has been invited to be our keynote speaker and it is on his schedule to join us.

We will be gathering for the ceremony in the parking lot adjacent to the Bethel Recreational Path, next to the Bridge Street Big Apple Store. After the ribbon-cutting, all are welcomed to join the governor on the first ceremonial walk across the bridge. Light refreshments and community networking will be available on the grounds of Bethel Outdoor Adventure, where parking is available.

This bridge has been anticipated for many years. It is a time for our community to celebrate and recognize all those who have been a part of helping the project come to fruition, as well as those who are standing ready to help extend the recreational trail system. We look forward to seeing you there.

*Robin Zinchuk
Executive Director, Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce*

GRIDIRON GRITS, AND THANKS

To the Editor:
I am encouraging people in this community to come out to Telstar this Sunday, Oct. 2, and Sunday, Oct. 23, to watch the Greenwood Spartans play football. There will be two games: third- and fourth-graders at 12:30 p.m. and fourth- and fifth-graders at approximately 2 p.m. This ambitious group of boys and girl (go Rebecca!) will make you proud. It is a real treat to watch them play, and I am sure they would appreciate your support.

Our concessions will include the following: Spartan dogs (hot dogs with "attitude"), "First Down" fried dough, grilled cheese sandwiches, southern-style chili, popcorn, coach's cotton candy, home-baked desserts, chips, candy bars, and hot and cold beverages. All proceeds go toward expanding our program to include the eighth and ninth grades next fall.

So come support the youth in our community and enjoy the entertainment and delicious food.

I would like to thank the following businesses for their donations for our concessions booth: Bethel IGA, The Good Food Store, Mallard Mart, Crossroads Diner, and Wal-Mart. We appreciate your support.

Concessions coordinator, Bethel*

WE WILL SURVIVE

To the Editor:
About 16 years ago I left Bethel physically, mentally and spiritually broken. I arrived with my daughter, Verina, in the precious town of Pass Christian, Miss., and was welcomed with open arms by all. In the past years here I have healed and now emerge from the rubble, a healthy, strong woman able to handle all that lies ahead. My heart aches for Pass Christian and all the fine people of Mississippi. I want to thank you for your prayers, love and support, which is deeply felt and much needed. Verina and I will be on a new journey and will survive.

FINE VOLUNTEERS AND ROLE MODELS

To the Editor:
Over Sept. 7, 8, 9, 15, and 16 we had an opportunity to work with some of the finest volunteers and role models that the Bethel area has to offer.

Nine juniors and seniors from Telstar Regional High School and Steve Keane's Telstar Challenge Class volunteered their time and outdoor leadership skills to give back to Crescent Park, Woodstock and Andover elementary schools. The positive energy, facilitation skills and outdoor experience they brought to each and every fifth-grader participating in the Leadership and Environmental Education Camp allowed the experience to be on par with some of the finest experiential education programming going on statewide.

Telstar should be proud of these students who represent their high school with such pride and desire to give back to the elementary schools they once attended. Without their participation, the programming would not have been possible. Many thanks to Steve Keane whose efforts to recruit such role models and whose Telstar Challenge Class provides the opportunity for students to participate in community service and teach many the outdoor education, social and life skills that they learn from their experiences. The Bethel area and SAD44 School District continues to be an area who cares about their community, kids and schools.

BE PART OF THE TEAM

To the Editor:
I have a dream where every child in America has the chance to be a member of a team, a community that would help them build on their strengths and develop their weaknesses. A team where no one questions their ability but feeds their desire to belong, to be part of a team — part of a community.

Being part of the Spartans' football team has given many of our sons and daughters in SAD44 the chance to share in this dream. These kids didn't have to be the fastest or the tallest, they didn't have to know how to hold a ball, never mind catch one, and they didn't have to know how to be part of a team, they just needed to want to be part of one.

This Sunday, Oct. 2, the Spartans play their second home game on the Telstar field. Maybe you've noticed the homemade goal post at the north end of the field. Maybe you've heard a member of the team sharing their excitement and confidence on the field, at school or somewhere in your town. Our son expressed his pride in his third-grade journal last week, "We played our second football game. We lost but I think it was a good game. The score was 12 to 16. We were winning for a time, they beat us by one extra point."

I invite and encourage the SAD44 community to be a part of the Spartans, be part of the dream shared by many area youth. Come on out to the game on Sunday, show our children we believe in them. Become part of the team.

RULES: SIMPLE, REWARDS: INNUMERABLE

To the Editor:
I would like to personally express my thanks to Bob and Lida Iles for a week of dedication in sorting, tossing, scrubbing, painting and leading the effort to renew the District Exchange. There were also a lot of volunteers at their side (I counted 20 from West Parish Congregational Church alone), working both at and behind the scene.

There were people who brought goodies to keep up morale, people at computers making new signs, people trekking to the dump in pickup trucks, etc.

It was a monumental undertaking, taken on with fervor and dedication by a whole group of people.

Bethel is so very lucky to have the Exchange, and for all of us privileged to make use of it (and it is indeed a privilege), the best way we can say "thank you" to everyone who helped make this refurbishing possible is to try and keep the place a joy to come into. (Hint: a size 42 man's pants does not belong in the toddler basket.)

If your kids are in the children's book and game section and pull out 20 books, let them take the ones they want but please put the others back. If you pull out a pair of sneakers for your six-year-old and they don't fit, please don't toss them in with women's high heels.

Be fair to all the dedicated volunteers and bring anything you might want to drop off during the hours when the Exchange is open. Do not leave bags piled up outside the door.

The rules are simple. The rewards are innumerable. Thanks again to the Iles, for it wouldn't have happened without their impetus and organization. And thanks to all the wonderful workers (far too numerous to mention, but you know who you are) for a terrific job well done.

THANKS TO KEY BANK STAFF

To the Editor:
The District Exchange Thrift Shop, on Philbrook Street, recently received many hours of volunteer service from Key Bank employees Marjorie Osgood, Mary Bean, Margo Reis, Jennifer Buck and Sheri Head. Sylvia Dunham, Exchange volunteer, coordinated their efforts.

These women worked tirelessly, helping to organize, fold, remove out-of-season clothes from the racks, and generally help clean things up. It's hard work. So, when you see one of those women, please say, "Thank you," for helping our community. A special thanks to Key Bank for allowing their employees to participate.

nance changes need a little tweaking before being presented to voters.

Only a handful of residents turned out for the hearing, and they did not, for the most part, raise any serious objections to the major proposed changes.

There were, however, concerns about one change in particular, a change that appeared in both the Subdivision and Site Plan ordinances.

That change would have required the services of a professional sign maker to be used for both the temporary signs required at the sites of new subdivisions, and the more permanent signs that would be required for new businesses.

The selectmen and Planning Board members present at the meeting ultimately concurred the requirement was probably overkill, and they agreed to have it removed.

The relevant sections of the two ordinances are now being revised, according to Town Manager Kim Sparks.

In another matter, the Planning Board members present all objected to a change in the Land Use Ordinance that would have given the town code enforcement officer the authority to issue building permits in non-shoreland zoning areas.

Until now, all building permits have been issued by the Planning Board, and the members present last week urged that the practice be continued.

Having five people, rather than one, review the permits makes for a more thorough and equitable process, they argued.

Planning Board member Alan Hamilton also made several references to the possibility of corruption and payoffs in situations where only one individual controlled the permits.

(Hamilton's comments included allusions to alleged payoffs in the past in Greenwood, but he offered no specifics.)

But the three selectmen, who proposed the change — in large part to speed up the both the building-permit application process and Planning Board meetings — countered that it had worked well during a recent, ongoing trial period.

And, they said, they felt town voters should have the final say on whether to make the change permanent or keep the older arrangement.

The selectmen are expected to set a new date for the special Town Meeting at their regular meeting Tuesday.

Condos proposed at Sunday River

NEWRY — A proposal by Sunday River Ski Resort to build nine condominium buildings with 36 units was presented to the Newry Planning Board last week. Known as the Tempest Townhouses project, the condos would be placed on three acres on Whitecap and Barker mountains, between the Tempest and Roadrunner ski trails, according to Joe Aloisio, Sunday River's director of construction. The project is a joint venture between Sunday River and the Hunneman Management and Development Co. of Boston. The board will consider the proposal further at its next meeting, on Oct. 5.

Tripp loses federal lawsuit

BOSTON — Former Bethel Police Chief Darren Tripp has lost another round in court. The 1st U.S. District Court of Appeals has affirmed a decision last year to dismiss Tripp's $500,000 lawsuit against the town of Bethel and Town Manager Scott Cole. The lawsuit stemmed from Cole's one-month suspension of Tripp in 2003. A second lawsuit, resulting from Cole's 2004 firing of Tripp, is still pending in Oxford County Superior Court.

BETHEL — Gould alumni are invited to attend Alumni Weekend, a series of events and activities taking place on the Gould campus from Friday, Sept. 30 through Sunday, Oct. 1. Foliage flotilla is Saturday

BETHEL — Canoeists and other interested people are invited to join the Mahosuc Land Trust in its annual Fabulous Fall Foliage Flotilla Oct. 1. The trek will begin at 9:30 a.m. and last approximately four hours. Canoes will put in at the Androscoggin River Bridge on Bridge Street in Gilead. Participants should register by calling 824-3806, and must provide their own canoe, personal flotation device and lunch. A shuttle will be provided to return to vehicles after the trek.

NTL summer 2006 plans

BETHEL — National Training Laboratories' president, Margaret Tyndall has announced the organization's plans for the 2006 summer season in Bethel. "The success of our programs in Bethel this year once again have underlined the importance of this area to our organization. NTL's strong, long-term ties to Bethel and the enduring bond between the community and NTL members continue to prove that this is an ideal environment for our programs," Denise McLellan, NTL's vice-president for administration, added. "Our decision not to house members and participants in the Founder's House this summer resulted in an even greater positive impact on Bethel's lodging establishments. In addition to the regular programs, our two-week celebration in August involved many area residents and great interaction with our visiting members." According to McLellan, NTL brought over 300 participants and members to Bethel for average stays of six nights each in the summer of 2005. Tyndall expressed concern that "our recent statements regarding The Founders House, our Bethel headquarters since the mid 1950's may have created some confusion about our continuing presence here in Bethel. I want to clarify that Bethel has been our summer home since 1947, and we are planning programs here for the summer of 2006 and beyond." She said that NTL does not want to be in the business of property management, and is therefore investigating ways to utilize other Bethel facilities for programs as NTL has done in the past, before and even after the purchase of the Founder's House. "It is simply not the best use of our resources to own and maintain a property on a year-round basis when it is only used for two months out of the year. Whether we partner with another organization or sell the property outright, Bethel will be the summer home of NTL for many years to come," Tyndall said.

'Medifoul' scam

SOUTH PARIS — From the Oxford County Sheriff's Department: The follow scam is currently happening in the Oxford Hills and Lewiston Areas. The caller is trying to sell a discount prescription lifetime drug plan for $299.00. The caller may know the name of a bank or credit union and will ask for a checking account or bank account number. They are also asking for account numbers to do a credit check for the discount prescription card. Do not give them any information. These are scams. Effect on elementary
Murphy said some parents may have to make some day-care adjustments, but many pupils are enrolled in the after-school Mahoosuc Kids Association program and will still go directly into it.

At the other end of the day, he said, "We shouldn't see many elementary students at the bus stop before 7 a.m." He said a handful of pupils from Andover travel to the Crescent Park Elementary School for either special programs or at parental request. They could be boarding the bus before 7, he said.

Murphy said that when this year's schedule was originally set, administrators tried to take into account research showing that teenagers function better mentally on a later schedule. But the impact at the other end of the day has been too serious, he said.

The scheduled change was unanimously approved by directors.

CHILD LOCKED IN SUV—A 1-year-old child became locked inside an SUV at Saturday's Farmers' Market in Bethel. The child was eventually freed, but as police and an automotive service worked to unlock the doors, the vehicle's alarm went off incessantly, disturbing the normally peaceful atmosphere of the market. area. Those who cross the bridge to the campground on Oct. 8 can head directly to the refreshments, or they can take a brief detour — by turning right as they come off the bridge and following the pathway as it loops back under both the recreation and traffic bridges.

For the moment, the trail stops there, looking upstream along the Androscoggin. But the Bethel Area Trails group is actively working to see that this stop is a brief one, and that the new bridge will ultimately connect to miles of new recreational routes. The 400-foot-long, weathered-steel truss bridge, supported by two large concrete piers, cost $1.4 million to build.

Funding came from federal and state sources, including a statewide bond issue approved by Maine voters in 2001. No local funds were directly involved in the core project, but Bethel voters did opt to spend $30,000 to prepare the bridge to carry future sewer lines into Mayville. Final details of the dedication ceremony are still being worked out. More information will be provided in next week's Citizen.

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce is organizing the events and can be reached at 824-2282. Anyone planning to attend is asked to RSVP to the chamber.

option would be to add the new hydrant and repair the old one, he said. Selectman Judy Bennett noted that residents near the old hydrant may have included information on the hydrant's location in their insurance paperwork. Some insurance companies may adjust homeowners' rates according to the distance of the home from a hydrant.

Woodstock Fire Chief Jeff Inman said, however, that it was his understanding that companies only consider pressurized hydrants in offering lower insurance rates.

FLY MOTOCROSS

The first motocross race took place Sunday at the Spruce Mountain Motorsports Park in Woodstock. Approximately 50 riders and 200 spectators turned out for the inaugural event, according to organizer Bruce Korhonen. Sunday's meet was the last for this season, but the action will pick up again, monthly, next year.

Bethel

by Virginia Keniston

Craig Davis is a patient in SCU at Maine Medical Center, Portland.

He and Margo moved to Bethel from Auburn on Sept. 23.

Jeri Tate of South Carolina is visiting Marion Kimball. On Monday, Grace Douglass, Joanne Kimball, Jeri Tate and Marion Kimball enjoyed dinner at the Balsams in Dixville Notch, N.H.

Recently Barbara Douglass spent time with her daughter Barbie and Peter Weeks in New Hampshire.

Ted and Rachel McKnight of Jericho spent the weekend with the Kenistons.

Janet Black, Maine Master Floral Designer and registered candidate to the American Institute of Floral Designers and owner of Designs Florist and Interiors, 2 Mechanic Street, Bethel, attended the Maine State Floral Fall Convention at the Hilton Garden Hotel in Freeport on Sept. 17 through 18.

She was involved in the State Floral Competition for Designer of the Year and won first place for judges choice and ranked third place in the state. She is the current president of the Maine State Florist and Growers Association. She will also co-chair the floral expo at the Fryeburg Fair from Oct. 2 through 9.

The weather didn't dampen the spirits at Lone Pine over the weekend of Sept. 16-18, as Hi and Mary Lou Berry hosted Mary Lou's family for a reunion weekend. Those attending were Rhonda and Brian Dalton, Jennifer, Eli and Liam Porter of Rotonda West, Fla.; Mary Lou and Roger Killelea of Walpole, Mass.; Allyson, George, Jake and Megan Gartley of Webster, Mass.; Diane O'Leary of Rosindale, Mass.; Robert and Joanne Cole of Middleborough, Mass.; Laura McBride and daughters, Julia and Hannah, from Plymouth, Mass.

Porters returned Tuesday for the rest of the week.

News from Mayville Sunday, Sept 25 By Don Bennett

The good news is: The produce cooler of the Good Food Store has a variety of local greens from the Carter's Middle Intervale Farm. Saturday I picked up a package of very fresh, aromatic basil. It is nice to see local produce in our stores.

The bad news is: Fall colors are showing in Mayville along the shoulders of Route 2, although the colors do not come from foliage. As the grass, weeds and ferns brown and wither, the ever increasing amounts of roadside litter become more apparent as an eyesore than when the litter was partially hidden by the summer vegetation.

Takeout food containers, household trash and construction debris seem about equally represented in the roadside rainbow.

Janie Vogt has done some research into the origin of the plant clematis viticella (Virgin's Bower) in answer to mention of the plant in both Lorrie Hoeh's and Ellie LeComte's recent columns. The common name applied to this species is Virgin's Bower.

According to George Jackman and Thomas Moore, who in 1872 commented on some obscure names given to clematis, the origin of the common name was given to ... the first clematis brought back to England (c. viticella) was introduced in 1569 during the reign of Elizabeth I. The name Virgin's Bower might be intended to convey a compliment to that sovereign, who as is well known, liked to be called the Virgin Queen. Book: "Clematis the Genus," by Christopher Grey Wilson.

Oxford Hills Bridge Club met last Friday at 9 a.m. at the Fare Share Commons, Main Street, Norway, where a fourtable Howell movement was enjoyed.

Finishing first in Flight A and B were Pete Cummings and Dick Allen with Beverly Pelletier and Luke Merry second. Third were Barbara and Paul Beegel. Finishing first in flight C were Barbara and Paul Beegel.

Gilead

by Lin Chapman

It was a nice fall day on Sunday. It started out on the cool side, warmed up later on and then turned cold again. It stayed nice long enough for a group to work on roadside cleanup on the North Road.

It seems like Cynthia Handlen is always picking up trash. Along the roadside that is. She and her husband, Paul, pick up the trash that is thrown out along the North Road from Gilead to Bethel when they are out for their daily run. A couple of other diligent roadside cleaners are Elaine Hutchins and Ginny McCoy. They keep the lower end of the road picked up. Elaine's husband, Jeff, has assisted by stopping with his truck and picking up the little trash piles.

Cynthia decided that it was time to tackle the North Road heading toward New Hampshire. She enlisted the aid of her husband and her neighbor, Alice Strait, and Hugh and I joined them with our pickup to load the bags of trash in. By the time we traveled from the state line back down to the Androscoggin Bridge, we had quite a load in the truck. It is amazing what is thrown out. There are a lot of cans and bottles that have come from New Hampshire and are not returnable.

While we were out walking we ran into a group of people, which turned out to be Bo and Heide Munro and family. They were walking along and had been making little piles of the trash that they had found along the roadside to be picked up later. Plenty of sunshine, fresh air and good company made for a fun morning.

There were quite a few people in town this weekend. Besides the Munro family, there were several family members of Maxine and Jack Coriveau. It is great to see Maxine home and I hear that she is doing well.

The McSweeney's, owners of Evans Notch Motel, were also

FARWELL HOUSE—The Farwell House, one of Bethel's older homes, is under contract to sell. The house was built by Samuel D. Philbrook in the mid-1870s and acquired from Philbrook by Charles Calvin Farwell (1847-1914) and his wife, Abbie W. Farwell (1851-1925). After Abbie Farwell's death in the 1920s, the house passed to their sons, Fred L. and H. Merton Farwell (1876-1955). Fred deeded his share of the premises to his brother, Merton, in 1925. His widow, Maud Pratt Farwell (1872-1964) sold the property to Leland and Barbara Brown in 1955. Their family consisted of Jeffrey, who now lives in East Longmeadow, Mass., and operates an ice cream shop and Karen Brown-Mohr, who lives in Portland and operates a consulting business. During the time that the Browns owned the property, it was frequently visited by political figures and candidates, including U.S. Senators Margaret Chase Smith, William S. Cohen and Olympia Snowe. During the last few years of Barbara D. Brown's life, she operated a bed and breakfast known as the "Farwell House."

in town doing some work to the motel. Hugh and I stopped by and got to check out some of the work that they have done on the cabins. I remember being in that cabin and it seemed to be small and kind of dark. Now it is opened up and quite pleasant looking with its little stove. One of the other cabins has been renovated to make room for a larger group to stay in. They have removed the low ceiling and added a sleeping loft on each end of the cabin. Hopefully, foliage season will bring in a lot of customers for them.

Howard and Stevie Reiche were in town to visit for the day and to attend the Gilead Historical Society Annual Meeting and Potluck Supper. Howard is one of the trustees for the GHS, along with Heide Munro and Tammy MacDorland.

My brother, Steve McLain, arrived a little before the GHS supper to see if he could give us a hand setting up. We put him right to work.

Historical Society
On Saturday, Sept. 24, the Gilead Historical Society held its Annual Meeting and Potluck Supper. The supper was great and there were close to 40 people who attended. There was plenty of food for everyone. In fact, everyone had such a great time, the GHS decided to do it again next year. During the meeting, there were dates chosen for events next year.

The first meeting of 2006 will be held on March 25 at 1 p.m. The 2006 Annual Meeting and Potluck Supper was set for Sept. 23, 2006 at 5 p.m. Several people have asked if the GHS is going to sponsor an annual event because they had such a great time at the Bicentennial Celebration. The answer is yes. The GHS decided to hold an annual event on the last weekend in June, which will be June 24, 2006. There will probably be an October meeting to wrap up the year again. This year's October event will be the Cemetery Tour and everyone will meet at the Town Hall on Oct. 29 at 1 p.m. The original time was set for 2 p.m., but in order to visit the cemeteries and spend time, it was decided to start earlier. There will be much more information on these meetings and events as the date gets closer. Keep reading this column for more information.

Officers for the GHS remained the same as last year: president/secretary: Linsley Chapman; vice president, Beverley Corriveau; treasurer, Bill Tout; trustees: Howard Reiche, Tammy MacDorland, Heide Munro. The society appointed Hugh Chapman as curator and Alice Strait as librarian. The scholarship fund will be handled by Howard Reiche, Cynthia Handlen and one other member yet to be determined. Cynthia Handlen was also chosen to be in charge of the Beautification Committee. Beverley Corriveau and Heide Munro were chosen to co-chair the Annual Event in June.

We discussed long-term goals, such as the acquisition of a building to house the society and how to go about raising funds for the society to operate on.

It was great to see the good turnout for the meeting. Besides the local people who attended there were several from out of town.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department

I saw a friend of mine the other day whom I had not seen in quite a while. Naturally, I inquired as to how she was doing. She said she was fine with the exception of a broken toe.

I don't recall ever having a broken toe, but I have certainly stubbed a toe on numerous occasions and therefore know how badly it hurts. A broken toe must, by the very nature of the injury, hurt a heck of a lot more.

So, it was with a lot of sympathy that I inquired further as to just how the injury came about. As it turns out, my friend broke her toe chasing a skunk.

This led to a rather humorous discussion as to why on earth anyone would actually chase a skunk. Most people, even at a very young age, know that it is best to keep a safe distance from the white striped critters. I have never known anyone who would be so foolish as to go after one.

I had visions of my friend running throughout her neighborhood shouting obscenities while in hot pursuit of Pepe La Phew. I could even imagine the frightened Pepe stopping dead in his tracks and thinking, "Now this just isn't right."

That's not at all how the broken toe came about, but it was quite an amusing thought. My poor friend was actually trying to prevent her cat from going after the skunk and was in the process of shooing it away when she banged her toe on something and broke it (the toe, not the something).

I wouldn't be at all surprised if most of us, have at some time in our lives received an injury that on the surface seemed a bit bizarre.

For me it was also toe related. Several years ago I had to take a day off from work because I had cut three toes on a guitar. That's right, a guitar!

You can well imagine that I received a lot of advice on playing a guitar with my fingers and not my toes. And, to add insult to injury, my boss did not believe my story at all and thought I was just trying to get out of work for the day.

There is actually a very plausible explanation of how it came about. I had bought my son an old guitar at a yard sale. He spent the better part of the weekend playing with it; I say playing with it because he didn't really know how to play it.

I'm sure that emergency room doctors have a lot of stories of injuries caused by oddness.

Anyway, he was so fond of his new musical instrument that he took it to bed with him, which is something 10 year-olds are apt to do. In the middle of the night he got thrashing around and the guitar fell out of the bed and landed with a crash on the floor.

I went running through the dark to rescue my child from whatever horrible thing that had caused the crash. As I approached his bed I stepped on the fallen guitar and my bare foot slid along the string thus cutting three of my toes.

My son was upset because I broke the guitar, my boss thought I was playing hokey and I had three badly cut toes. It was not a pretty song.

I'm sure that emergency room doctors have a lot of stories of injuries caused by oddness. I was in the emergency room once being treated for a nasty spider bite, when a man came in with his hand stuck in a mayonnaise jar.

Because of hospital confidentiality, I have no idea how this man got his hand in the jar in the first place nor do I know what was done to extricate it, but I'm sure there was quite a story to go with it.

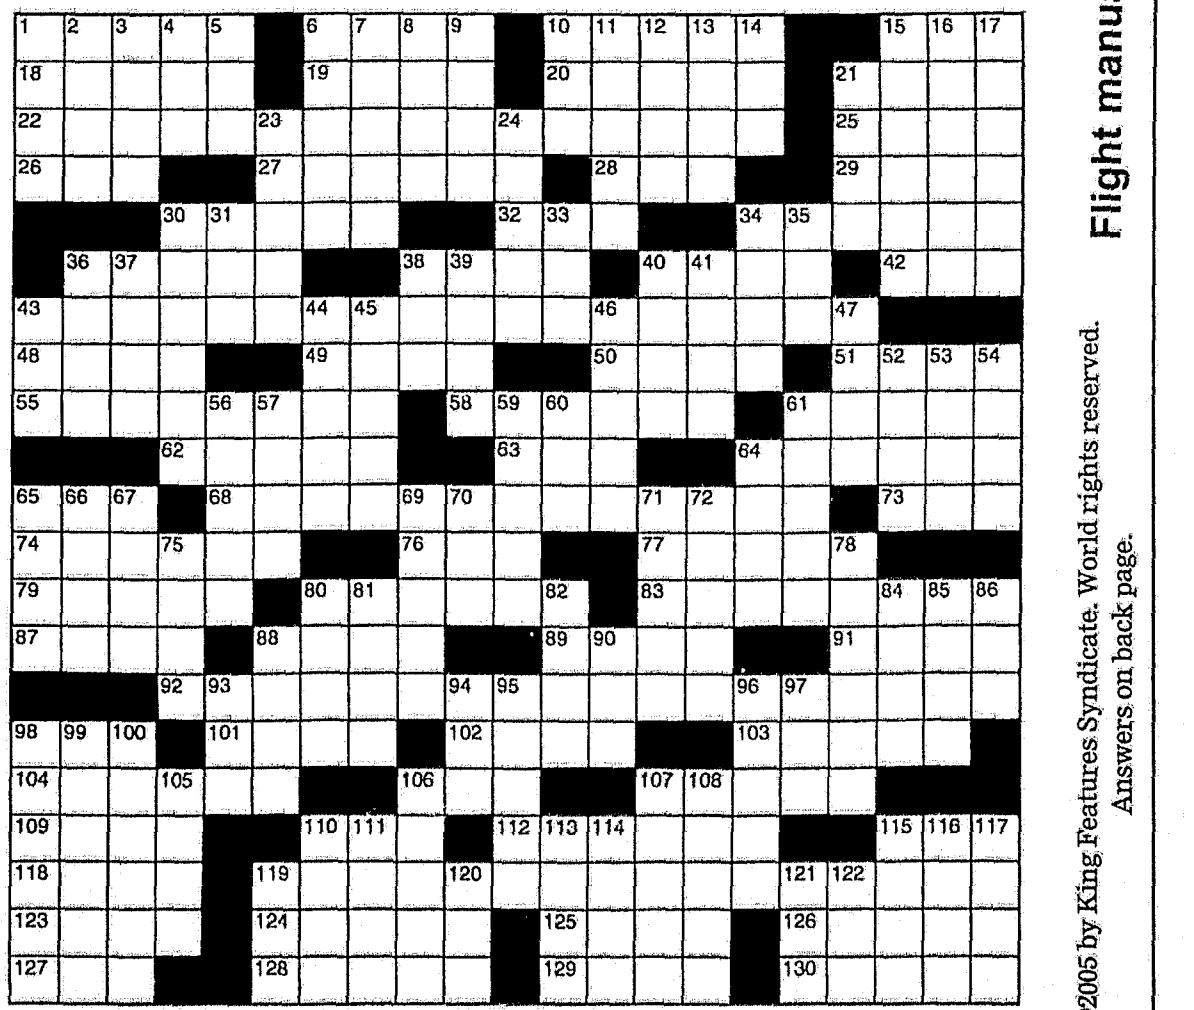

My sister-in-law, no doubt, provided an injury by oddness story to an emergency room in New Hampshire. As a teenager she had been sitting on a football with her legs spread out to the sides. Somehow she managed to fall from her perch, which could not have been more than 6" off the floor, and broke her leg.

I don't know why she was sitting on a football; she was a teenager at the time so reason doesn't enter into it. And I don't know how she managed to break her leg from such a short fall, but she did.

My daughter broke a few ribs from coughing when she was pregnant. It seemed odd to me, but it is apparently not that uncommon. My brother severely injured his foot when he dropped a toilet on it. That would take an entire column to tell that story.

I think everyone has experienced an injury by oddness or at least know someone who has, but the way I see it, my friend breaking a toe chasing a skunk is certainly one of the oddest. That is, unless you consider cutting one's toes on a guitar to be a little odder.

West Bethel

by Lorrie Hoeh

Sunday morning really felt like fall, with the overnight temperature having officially fallen to 32 degrees on our thermometer. On a damp Monday morning walk with Jake, I noted that the birches and beeches are turning yellow, and the red maples are going to shades of orange and red.

On Saturday morning there was a Nordic walking clinic on the Bethel Common, for those who were interested in learning about the new Nordic walking poles. I met Beth Hodgdon of Grover Hill Road there, and we had a chance to get caught up on one another as we poled along. These poles are designed to turn walking into a total-body, low-impact exercise. By the way, studies have shown that walking correctly with these poles burns calories at a rate of 20 percent to 46 percent greater than ordinary walking. Now there's motivation!

Saturday night we had our grandchildren, Molly and Andrew Siegel, staying overnight. In the morning we all took our pails to a certain location (which shall be nameless) and picked some wild cranberries. I cooked them up as soon as we returned, and everyone pronounced the resulting whole-berry sauce delicious.

Maureen Libby called recently and told me to mark Oct. 29 and 30 on my calendar. Those are the days when the Maine Alpaca Association will be holding Open Farm Days, and we'll all have another chance to converse with the critters. More on this as the time approaches. Sunday River Alpacas will also be at the Blue Mountain Craft Festival at Sunday River on Oct. 8 and 9. Liam and Aladdin will be showing off again, and alpaca items will be on sale.

The Rev. Earl Bell reported in an e-mail that the West Bethel Union Church is organizing a Men's Fellowship or Club that will be meeting the third Wednesday evening at 6:30 p.m. for a dinner meeting followed by a program. Bob Everett, David DeGruttola and Bob McInnis are contacting the men of the church concerning their interest in a Men's Club. This is part of the growing ministry of the West Bethel Union Church.

In other church news, Saturday night's community supper was a smashing success. It's always nice to go out on a high note. Since this was the last supper of the season, Jane Hosterman remarked, "Now everybody can take a deep breath and rest." Until the next round.

The Pleasant Valley Grange installed four new members this past week. They were Sue Ellen Richardson, Douglass Topper, and their son, Galen Topper, a student at Gould; as well as Benjamin Glover. Jane explained to me some of the symbolism of the ceremony, and it sounded very impressive.

I guess we'll all be busy with garden chores and food preservation this week, yours truly included. Let me know if you have any news, 836-3011; dhoe@megalink.net

Andover

by Melinda Averill

on Sept. 29 for Washington, D.C. They will attend Robert's 9th reunion of his 435th Troop Carrier Group. This will be the last gathering.

Daniel White is living with his mother, Mrs. Lester White, and working on his new home nearby.

Edna White returned to her home on Sept. 22 from the Norway Rehabilitation Center where she stayed for several weeks.

The enrollment at the Andover Elementary School is 28 girls and 27 boys — total of 55 students. Teachers are Alice Lee, Kathy Conrad, Roger Sabin and John Emery. Patty Brown is secretary.

Cars in East Andover had frost on them on Sept. 22. Flowers and grass are still growing but there is not much color yet on the leaves.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Harold "Buster" Falkenham, who passed away on Sept. 20. Funeral services were held on Saturday at the Meader & Son Funeral Home in Rumford, with Pastor John O'Keefe officiating.

Buster is survived by his son, Brandon and wife Nancy of Laguna Hills, Calif.; his daughter, Glenda Meisner of Bridgewater, Nova Scotia; and four grandchildren.

Barbara Adams has informed me that she is going to have an article in the next chicken soup book. It is due out in March of 2006. The book is titled "Chicken Soup for Moms and Sons." Her article is "Chalk it up."

Several Andover middle school boys are playing soccer at Telstar and Mt. Valley this year. Playing for Telstar are eighth-graders Ethan Damon, Michael MacKnight, Arete Masselli, Joel Putnam; seventh-graders Elek Pew, Daniel Vaughn, Darren Jodrey; and sixth-grader Randy Morin. Playing for Mt. Valley Middle School are eighth-grader Carl Zurhorst, seventh-grader Wade McPherson, and sixth-graders Erich Zurhorst and Izaak Mills. The boys met up last week when Telstar traveled to Mt. Valley for the first game of the season. Telstar prevailed in both games. The AES Alumni players were prominent for both teams on offense and defense. In the varsity game, Ethan, Michael, and Arete scored for TMS, while Izaak Mills scored both goals for Mt. Valley. These teams meet again at Telstar on Sept. 29 (tonight).

Last Sunday, we traveled to South Paris for a Housewarming Party for my nephew and his fiancé, Troy and Allison. Also attending from town were Peg, Mom, Sue and Abby.

Happy birthday today to Drew Hutchins, who is 10 years old.

There was a bad fire Saturday morning on the South Arm Road, which burned the home of Charlie and Katarina Gaura. Thank goodness he was able to get out; Katarina was at work. Sadly they did lose two pets and everything but the clothes they had on. Our thoughts go out to them. Fryeburg Fair starts this weekend — see you there.

Hanover

by Clem Worcester

Robert and Joanne Moulton and family, residing on Howard Pond Road, are new neighbors being welcomed to Hanover.

Get well wishes go to Barbara Gross who was recently taken ill. We have heard that she is recuperating at home and doing well.

Also, we send get well wishes to Barbara's sister, Bessie Ettl. She was recently hospitalized in Portland but is now recuperating at home.

The Hanover Select Board met on Tuesday, Sept. 20. They heard reports and read correspondence. The board decided to make a donation to the Red Cross Hurricane Katrina Effort along with other towns in Maine. The program is being sponsored by the town of Buxton.

The Select Board also took steps to move Hanover more deeply into the realm of present day technology by approving the concept of payments to the town with credit and debit cards. That program should be available soon and may lead to rapid renewal of automobile registrations using home computers.

The Select Board completed an agreement with the towns of Woodstock and Greenwood to share the position of Code Enforcement Officer.

The annual Town Meeting will occur on Tuesday, Oct. 25, at the Hanover Town House. Besides other issues, voters will be asked to elect a selectman for a three-year term and to fill a vacancy on the board to finish two years due to a resignation.

Also to be elected is a three-year term on the Superintending School Committee as well as a partial School Committee term due to a vacancy. Voters will be asked to elect the one-year term positions of town clerk, tax collector and treasurer.

The Hanover Town Office was closed Sept. 27 so that the staff could attend the Bureau of Motor Vehicles Fall Workshop at the West Paris Town Office.

The office will also close at noon on Friday, Sept. 30, to allow workers time to set up the Hanover display at the Mountain Valley Expo at Mountain Valley High School. The Hanover booth will feature local businesses including the Hanover office of the Postal Service.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte

Autumn has arrived. The trees are still in summer colors and the late summer was warm and comfortable. The first frost arrived Sept. 23.

We are surprised to see that the hummingbirds have not deserted us. They are, however, packing their bags to fly south. The impatiens in the window box are receiving many visits. They wash down the flower contents with the sugar water, but it seems that the natural food is on the menu.

Buster Williamson and Al Gagnon have both been in the hospital. Al is home and is feeling quite well. Leslie Aron keeps an eye on him. He is very lucky to have her.

Saturday morning, the ladies headed to Magalloway for their annual Fair and gigantic Yard Sale. There were literally thousands of books for sale. I bought several, one of which was printed in 1883. Inside the flyleaf was a statement from the previous owner. It said "very good." The fair items and the food were super. It seemed to have been visited by everyone in the North Country. Old home week, to say the least.

Again, Louisiana was struck by Hurricane "Rita." Mother Nature can be very cruel. Our sympathy to all the stricken people.

Last week, I mentioned the apple trees being loaded with fruit. Branches, heavily laden with apples, are breaking off from the trees.

Buster Williamson's McIntosh has quite a few on it. Al Gagnon's Rome Beauty and Macs have hundreds of apples. I helped myself to several. Later in the day Jennifer Casey brought in a bag of my favorites. Macoun apples in my mind and mouth are the best. Jennifer picked her apples at Lyon's Orchard.

We still have the little moose in the cove. The poor thing has no mother to guide it but it seems to be doing quite well. Last week, Evelyn Kenney snapped a picture of it trying to get into her barn. I'd say that was a sign of cold weather to come.

The town is alive with wild turkeys. Al Gagnon had thirty eating apples in his driveway.

The sound of wood splitting can be heard all over town. The price of fuel is prohibitive. Gold is cheaper.

Many little birds are flying out of the shrubbery. They fly too fast to identify. The snow buntings are back at the Sweet Farm. Maybe they were there in their summer outfits but the winter white is showing now.

The geese are scarce on the lake, but can be found with the turkeys on the way to Colebrook.

Lucille Largesse is now the chef at the Bull Moose. Her baked stuffed shrimp is super and completely devoid of cholesterol (??).

The "Bird of the Week" is again the hummer. I promise he won't be again until next May.

ple of years; in fact, since the time one was teetering on the railing eating bird seed from the feeder while four others were eating food from the ground.

It's bring in your flowers and plants time of year along with the stacking of wood for those who burn it. My son came out to help put wood on the front porch. He secured a better ramp and removed a huge rock that had been in the way for many years.

Greetings and good wishes to both Sylvia and Bill at Ledgewick, and hope they are doing well. I've been making apple crisps and not our usual pie that we share at this time of year. So I'll have one ready when you get home.

South Woodstock

by Andrea Wing

Sympathy goes out to the family and friends of Mike Henderson of Oxford, who died recently.

Mike leaves a wife, Alison, and many family members. Our son, Rick, worked with Mike several years ago.

Also, much sympathy to the family of Jeffery Dillingham, who recently passed away. Jeff is the son of Elizabeth and Robert Walden of Sumner and Ronald Dillingham and Peggy Roberts of West Paris. Jeff leaves several brothers and a grandmother, Marion Dillingham and a companion, Donna Marie Charpentier. Both of these deaths were young people.

Cleo Ryerson, Dotte Davis, Ginny Mason, Beryl Hall and Joe Pete Appleby all visited at the home of Maude Alice and Erlon Hadley. They had a wonderful time talking about the past and catching up on current news. Beryl Hall is going to Virginia for a visit with her sister, Dotte Davis, for a while.

A surprise birthday party was celebrated for Troy Ryerson here in South Woodstock. Those attending were Melanie Ryerson, Nathan Black, Maggie and Cleo Ryerson. Pizza and cake were enjoyed by all.

Erik Poland, son of Todd and Linda Poland, is participating in the search and rescue dealing with the recent hurricane in the South. He will be working for FEMA with a group of EMTs from this area in Operation Search and Rescue and will receive training in hazardous materials. Erik is an EMT.

Larry Billings, curator for Woodstock Historical Society reports that at their last meeting Olive Risko was elected president, Larry Billings, curator and Annella Burnham was elected chairman of the board of trustees. A video on the old phone system was shown. Curator Billings donated three new exhibits. The museum is very impressive and they are off to a new start.

Rachel Wilday won the watermelon contest at the fair. Everyone said it was quite a show and the girls did a good job trying to find a watermelon blindfolded.

Lance Bean did a great job bull riding at the Oxford County Fair. Lance rode the bull for six seconds one ride. This is a new attraction at the fair.

October birthdays being celebrated are: Aaron Bean, Darren Brown, Chris Canulli, Laurie Cox, Jacob Danforth, Jeannie Grover, Don Mason, Jr., Jerrold Mason, Virginia Mason, Rosalie Poland, Lindsey Record, Chad Ryerson, Lisa Ryerson, Mathew Ryerson, Dustin Tilley, Roger Wilday, Karon Wing, Benjamin Yap, Brandon Yap and Rhonda Yap. Happy birthday to you all.

Sympathy to the family of Milton Mills. Services at the Baptist Church are Sunday School at 9:15 a.m., morning worship at 10:30 a.m., choir practice at 5 p.m. and evening service at 6 p.m. Wednesday evening at 6:30 is prayer meeting, Thursday morning at 9 is ladies prayer time. On Oct. 16 there will be a baptism.

On Sunday, Sept. 18, Ken and Alice Hoyt; Beatrice Farnum; Beth, Steve and Marybeth Hoover; Jim, Charlene and Joseph Hoyt, Bob Hoyt and Shawn Crockett joined Leatrice and John Chase; Althea, Robert, Keith and Jenny Stevens; Ricky, Teresa, Mike and Hunter Chase; Andrew, Rhonda and Liza Chase for a get-together for Beatrice Farnum's birthday at the Chase Camp.

Monday evening, Franklin Grange met with West Paris Grange for a joint installation of officers. A 6 p.m. supper was held. Helvi Cary won the crown.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens will meet on Thursday, Oct. 6, for a dinner ner out at the Chick A Dee in Turner.

Franklin Grange 124 will meet on Monday, Oct. 3, for a meeting at the hall at 7 p.m.

Woodstock Historical Society will meet on Oct. 8 for a meeting at the Museum at 7 p.m.

Sympathy is extended to family and friends of George Wheeler.

Also, sympathy to the family of Charlene S. Haines.

The Historical Society Museum has a collection of artifacts that is outstanding for a small society. Paul Billings reports the dehumidifier is working fine. This will help protect the collections. President Olive Risko is busy organizing her committees for the upcoming year. They hope for a successful new year now its officers are in place. They face new challenges each year and hope they can navigate their way through them all once again. Why don't you join and help them out. Thanks to the late Milton Mills for a generous donation to the Historical Society. Curator Larry Billings has given to the Historical Society a desk accessory to clip notes on, a plaque with a map of the World on it and many volumes of classic.

Larry Billings attended the West Paris Universalist Church and heard a nice sermon. He took a rose, which he doesn't normally do, for the front of the church. The members are looking for a new minister.

Curator Larry Billings received a phone call from a professor in Florida who was looking for information on George Allen England. The Museum boasts local memorabilia, art, and antiques, fine furniture to children's toys. Exhibits are well arranged and catalogued by the curator and most members can give you a tour. The curator gave a book on "Historic House of New England" by Bob Vila.

All is well with a little rain plus plenty of sunshine. The budded Easter lily is the same with its two white buds. It does not enlarge or blossom out. The warm nights should help them to develop. I do cover them each night but let the sun shine on them days. One night was at the freezing mark but did not kill anything in the flower garden.

On Sunday, Oct. 2, Bernice Martin will be the speaker at the West Paris Universalist Church. The title of her service is, "Finding Unitarian Universalism and a Community of Friends." Jim Burke is organist. All are invited and a coffee hour follows.

Ken Lamb and I were in Augusta Saturday to retrieve my van. I left it there at my daughter Peggy's when I bought my newer car. We had a nice visit and both cars have returned to West Paris.

Beverly and Vince Stevens went to Fryeburg on Tuesday and will stay until the fair is over. Beverly is an important worker there and works a day weekly the year round. Ann Goulding will stay with her grandmother, Georgia Thayer, while they are away.

Most of the gardens have gone by. Joe Perham met us after our walks, to pick up Peg, and kept us in tomatoes for the last month. Theirs have finally run out. They have been very good for us that do not have a garden.

My daughter raised the thin, long cucumbers which I call European cucumbers. They were delicious and have only small seeds.

Buffy has a spot up behind the garage where he sits a lot. There must be a mouse or squirrel nearby. He has about given up catching rodents.

Phillip and Emily Barbeau, along with their children, Hayley and Phillip, are visiting Emily's mother, Mel Cummings, this week. Mr. Barbeau is a Chief Petty Officer with the United States Navy. He was stationed in San Diego, Calif., for the last three years. Now he has been transferred to Groton, Conn. The children will stay with their grandmother for a little while as Phillip and Emily travel to Groton in order to make plans for their new housing and schooling for the children.

The Loon Echo Land Trust held their annual bike trek through Albany this year, but in reverse. Instead of coming up the hill from Bethel, they came from the Waterford side. They had three categories: the 25- and 50-mile treks (they did not come through Albany) and the Century (100) that came through from Sweden to Waterford and Bethel, and then back through Evans Notch.

Quite a trip! They are based in Bridgton, and serve the towns of Raymond, Casco, Naples, Harrison, Sebago, Bridgton and Denmark. In these seven towns on the north side of Sebago Lake, they have protected more than 3,067 acres of land, including 12 conservation easements and five preserves. Their mission statement is to preserve land and natural resources in the northern Sebago Lake region for recreation, education, wildlife and plant habitat, watershed and air quality, sustainable agriculture and forests for future generations to enjoy. For more information, check out their website: www.loonecholandtrust.org. Best wishes for a happy and safe week. God Bless and Keep!

Maine humorist, "Norbert Twichell" a.k.a. Peter Gammons, will be featured as part of the Bethel Historical Society's activities in conjunction with the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition, "Barn Again! Celebrating and American Icon."

With his infectious Maine humor that will keep most audiences chuckling throughout the evening, "Norbert" will appear at Alder River Grange 145 in East Bethel at 1895 Intervale Road following a harvest supper put on by the Grange in cooperation with the Bethel Historical Society. The price of admission to the supper and the humorist will be $10. Those attending only the supper will pay $7 and only the humorist $5. The supper will begin at 5 p.m. and the humorist will follow shortly at 7 p.m. Further information may be obtained by calling the society at 824-2908 or (800) 824-2910.

Historian William H. Bunting will be the featured speaker at a special lecture held as part of Bethel Historical Society's activities in conjunction with the Smithsonian Traveling Exhibition, "Barn Again! Celebrating an American Icon," on Thursday, Oct. 13 at 7:30 p.m. at Pleasant Valley Grange in West Bethel. Bunting possesses a lifelong interest in history, evidenced when he expressed keen disappointment to his mother after his first day at school, when he complained there had been "Nothing about ships. Nothing about how things work. Nothing about olden times."

Bunting balanced his formal education with time at sea, working aboard traditional sailing vessels and fishing boats. His first book was published shortly after he graduated from college. "Portrait of a Port: Boston 1852-1914" (Harvard University Press) was followed by "Steamers, Schooners, Cutters and Sloops" (Houghton Mifflin). A long-term photo collection and research project in Maine resulted in the two-volume, "A Day's Work: A Sampler of Historic Maine Photographs," the first volume appearing in 1997.

With Earle G. Shettleworth, Jr., Bunting co-authored "An Eye for the Coast: The Maritime and Monhegan Island Photographs of Eric Hudson" (1998). "Sea Struck," a book about the final decades of American square-rigged sail, was published in 2004. A maritime historian by vocation, he lives in Whitefield, where he raises Durham cattle and operates an agricultural bulldozing business.

During his presentation, Bunting will show slides and provide commentary regarding some of his photographs used in his "Day's Work" books relating to work around barns and other farm buildings.

Copies of Bunting's book, "A Day's Work: A Sampler of Historic Maine Photographs," will be available for purchase, and for the author to autograph, following the lecture. The program is free and open to everyone.

As part of the activities highlighting the current Smithsonian Institution traveling exhibit, "Barn Again! Celebrating an American Icon," at the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center and during Bethel's Harvest Fest, the society sponsored a barn tour during the day followed by a barn dance in the evening. Sixteen barns were included in the tour ranging widely in size, design and current use. The tour began with the Dr. Moses Mason House barn (ca. 1813), which currently houses the Smithsonian exhibit. It moved next door to the John Hastings barn (ca. 1821), which contains a farming and logging exhibit and where cider pressing and applesauce making were featured.

From there the attention turned to "The Oaks" at Bethel Inn, which was once a 19th century barn converted (ca. 1930) to accommodate guest housing. Historic photographs of the structure during its barn days were on display here.

Next came the Playhouse Antiques barn (ca. 1850) now used as an antique shop. Across the Bethel Common is the mid-19th century barn converted in the 1930s and 1940s into a residence and later into an inn and restaurant, now known as L'Auberge.

From here barn tour participants could visit the mid-19th century barn on the backside of Paradise long owned by the Burke and Willard families.

The next stop was the large barn of distinguished Civil War Commander Clark S. Edwards of the 5th Maine built about 1860. On lower Main Street is the large barn of Samuel Philbrook built in 1879 and how used for retail space and known as Philbrook Place.

As one moves outside the village, another stop was the barn on the former Jonathan Clark property dating probably from the 1850s and owned by the Bethel Inn in the 1920s for raising fresh meat and vegetables to feed guests. Further out on Skillings Road is a hillside farm with a barn dating from the middle of the 19th century.

The barn near the airport on the North Road was built in Gilead in 1880 by Timothy Chapman. It was later taken down and reassembled in Bethel about 1916 and moved further up the North Road in 1931 for use in the agricultural fair held there for several years. In this neighborhood is the 1889 barn of Samuel Twitchell now containing in some of its space a sculptor's studio.

One of the three surviving dairy farms in Bethel was the next barn, an early 19th century structure in East Bethel still in the same family since late 1700s. The next stop featured a small barn with a variety of outlying structures containing several models of John Deere tractors. The early 19th century barn on the former Amos Powers property contained a display of vintage photographs detailing some of the uses and evolution of this structure through the years.

The ca. 1880 Alpheus S. Bean barn off the Flat Road in West Bethel was the final stop for many and was the largest structure on the tour. Also listed on the tour, although not a barn, was the 1905 Alder River Grange hall, which sponsored sandwiches, donuts and coffee during the day.

Much appreciation is due the owners of the barns for agreeing to host this tour. They are Sharon and Doron Haendel of L'Auberge, Sally and Richard Taylor of Playhouse Antiques, Tom and Marcey White of A Prodigal Inn, Bruce and Susan Pratt, John and Fumiko Head, Peter Haines, Patricia and Francis Dooen, Tim and Joanna Korhonen, Franklin Harrington, Arthur Hertell, Bethel Inn, Philbrook Place, Robert W. and Bettyann Hastings, Dean and Deborah Richmond, and Stan Howe.

Also deep gratitude is expressed to all the volunteers who worked on the barn tour or helped assist visitors. They are Jan Stowell, who served as volunteer co-ordinator; ticket sellers Dexter Stowell and Al Cressy; craftspeople Lorrie Hoeh and Alden Kennett; hosts Sandra Seaver, Barbara Douglass, Sharon and Doron Haendel, Bruce and Susan Pratt, Ruth Feeney, Carol Hatch, Mary Valentine, Jack Nordahl, Peter Haines, Tom and Marcey White, Patricia Dooen, Eric Schwarz, Tim and Joanne Korhonen, Arthur Hertell, Owen Wight, Avery Angevine, Sylvia Clanton, Dean Walker, Robert W. and Bettyann Hastings, Marlene Engdahl, Dean and Deborah Richmond, Judy Haskell, and Amy Davis.

At the barn dance on Saturday evening, Joe and Lynn Arizzi served as ticket sellers while Tom and Marcey White and members of their family hosted. A long table of refreshments, much of it prepared by the White family and friends, greatly enhanced the event. Many thanks to the volunteers who in August helped clear up the space for the dance (Todd Davis, Donald Bennett, Richard Taylor, Norm Clanton, Tom Mitchell, Charlie Horne, Ross Swan, members of the White family and their friends and Stan Howe) and to the Richard Felt Orchestra for providing the music supported in part from a grant from the Maine Humanities Council.

The Maine Humanities Council presents "Barn Again! Celebrating an American Icon," an exhibition organized by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service (SITES) and the National Building Museum with the assistance from the National Trust for Historic Preservation. Barn Again! is a registered trademark owned by the Meredith Corporation and the National Trust for Historic Preservation. This project was made possible, through the generous support of the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation and the Hearst Foundation. Additional funding has been provided by the National Endowment for the Humanities, the Smithsonian Institution Special Exhibition Fund, and the Smithsonian Educational Outreach Fund.

From the Oxford County Republicans

State Senator Peter Mills (R-Cornville) was the featured speaker at the Sept. 13 monthly meeting of the Oxford County Republican Committee held at the Hartford Town Hall. In his remarks, Mills, a candidate for Maine governor in 2006, called for new ways of doing the people's business in Augusta. For too long, the Democratic Party has been keeping Maine people increasingly dependent upon state government. Too much spending, high taxes and run-away bureaucratic regulations have been stifling Maine's economy ever since the Democrats gained control of the Maine Legislature in the 1970s. To counter a generation of bad government, Mills called for innovative approaches to government designed to free the Maine economy of the crushing burden of taxation and regulation.

Mills' remarks followed dinner served by a local church group. According to the committee secretary, Barbara KATRINA VICTIMS—Former Bethel resident Louise Robiller and her daughter, Verina, lost their Mississippi home in Hurricane Katrina. Verina's college was also destroyed in the storm. The two women are pictured here with what was left of their home, which was constructed of eight-inch-thick, reinforced concrete.

Robinson, over forty were in attendance from eighteen Oxford County towns.

During the business meeting, chairman Erlon Jones of Fryeburg received a generous check on behalf of the committee from the Woodstock Republican Town Committee for the 2006 election. State Committeewoman Becky Kendall announced that she is again recruiting volunteers for the Republican booth at Fryeburg Fair. Anyone wishing to volunteer should call her at 824-3196.

Chairman Jones also announced that the next meeting would be on Oct. 11 in Bryant Pond at Franklin Grange. The speaker will be Nate Walton of Bates College, chairman of the Maine College Republicans.

Among the officeholders recognized at this meeting were Rep. Roberta Muse (R-Fryeburg), Rep. Arlan Jodrey (R-Bethel), Sen. David Hastings was lost forever. You look at the sea of cots and it is overwhelming. That's why I focus on helping one person at a time. One child at a time. And take it one day at a time."

(R-Fryeburg), Rep. Randy Hoatham (R-Dixfield), Rep. Bruce Hanley (R-Paris), and Register of Probate Tom Winsor. Two candidates for Oxford County Sheriff, officers Alan Carr and Christopher Wainwright were also in attendance.

Kids have a special place in the hearts of New England Crew — A mother rocking her child, a baby asleep in a crib and children playing are a few of the activities going on in the Day Care Center built by the New England Crew in the Ward Shelter.

When this group of firefighters arrived at Ward, there were a lot of workers there doing a variety of jobs.

"What the Incident Command System did was bring order, or at least organized chaos in the beginning," said Dale Skidmore, branch director at Ward.

There were a lot of unknowns when the New England Crew arrived. They had seen news coverage, but didn't know what to expect. "For firefighters, the biggest challenge was dealing with people instead of trees. We were a little apprehensive," said Jay Milot, crew boss. "But then we met the people and their kids and all that changed."

Besides stacking supplies, cleaning and answering questions, the New England Crew found time to build a play land, with little-kid tables and hand-painted wall murals, giving children displaced by Hurricane Katrina a fun, private place to be kids.

Dylan Kinsella Alden is a member of a Type 2 hand crew from the White Mountain National Forest. She's assigned to the Ward Center which houses 1,011 evacuees. She's used to being on a fire line, but this is her first assignment to a hurricane and she finds herself doing other things she never thought she would.

"I've been folding clothes, building shelves, handing out vouchers and at the moment, I'm installing an alarm system on an exit door in the day care area. I'm focused on the day care, making sure the area is safe. It's like we're building a small town."

It's the human element that touches her heart so.

"We hear of tragedies in other countries, but seeing these kids, many who don't even know where their parents or brothers and sisters are, brings it home."

"I'm thankful I can make a small contribution by making the day care area a safe spot for these kids."

From the Northern Forest Heritage Park

The sixth annual Lumberjack Festival and Competition on Saturday, Oct. 1, at the Northern Forest Heritage Park's circa 1900 Logging Camp will showcase professional competition amidst a full day of festivities. Admission is only $7 for adults with all children age 12 and under with an adult admitted free. The full-scale Logging Camp on the banks of the Androscoggin River creates the perfect atmosphere for the festivities that relives the rich woodsman's heritage of the region.

Gates open at 8:30 a.m. with a lumberjack breakfast, including the park's famous bean-hole beans, eggs, pancakes

BLUE TARPERS

Andover residents, Harold and Wendy Hutchins and Coal, Cookie and George Thew, and Malcolm Grant and Sandra Day, hosted a successful gathering of the Blue Tarp Society Aug. 21-25 at the Balsam Woods Campground in Abbot. Tarping, storytelling, s'mores, the ceremonial singing of "Smokey the Bear" song (all four verses) around the campfire, and a wonderful walk-about were the major events enjoyed during the gathering. Plans and ideas were discussed for the next gathering.

with syrup, sausage, home-fries and beverage served in the cookhouse for $7.

The festival and preliminary axe-throwing competition kickoff is 11 a.m. Lumbermen and women will compete for prize money in eight events. The judged competition narrated by master of ceremony Don Quigley, ESPN announcer and lumberman historian, always proves to be exciting. In 2003 two world records were broken.

Also featured throughout the day is North Woods humorist and musician, Red Gallagher who will add his own special flare to the day.

The voice of the past lumbermen will be brought to visitors in selected buildings of the Logging Camp and blacksmith artisan Matt Emery will be at the wooden forge from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Professional log roller, Matt Chagnon will offer an opportunity for all to try their "feet" at log rolling in the safety of a log rolling pool. Be sure to bring a change of clothes and a towel. Chagnon will also demonstrate this heritage skill throughout the afternoon prior to a competition to crown the 2005 Junior Log Rolling Champion. Eight-year old Tucker Evans of Milan will be defending his 2004 Championship.

After breakfast, the food court will be filled with the aroma of the park's famous bean-hole beans to be unearthed at 12:15 p.m. and served up with pit ham, coleslaw and homemade bread. Or enjoy hot dogs, hamburgers and sausages, fried dough, french fries and poutine, and traditional Franco-American meat pie. End with a serving of homemade pies, baked goods, or ice cream, enough to satisfy everyone's taste buds.

Demonstrations such as the Pulp and Paper Resource

Council's papermaking, or Brian Lamarre's chainsaw carving, and presentations like FraserPapers' "From Forest to Paper," or wildlife presentations by Barbara Harvey, and exhibits such as Today's Logging Equipment (limited), and the Traditions of the North Country art exhibit will fill out the day.

Or take a Cultural Heritage Tour of Berlin with Barb Barbieri aboard a tour bus at either 9:30 or 11 a.m. Or view moose in their natural habitat on a Northern Forest Moose Tour departing at 6 p.m. Reservations are recommended for these popular limited-space tours.

Fun is definitely part of the mix for the day. Young and young-at-heart can play games such as Beanbag Tic-Tac-Toe, Moose Antler Ring Toss, Wood Ring Toss, or Bobbing for Apples. Under age 12 play for free with a small prize to the winner. A timed lumberjack obstacle course, miniature log drive, and face painting will add to the festivities.

From the Maine Veterans' Home

The recent 10th birthday festivities at Maine Veterans' Home, South Paris, was a huge success. The weeklong celebration included a variety of attractions and activities for residents, families and staff. "There was something for everyone, and the atmosphere all week was exciting!" stated staff member Megan Curtis.

Included in the activities were events such as a Bake-Off contest, with judges made up from staff, residents and friends. There were over 20 en-

REAL ESTATE AND YOU
KEEPING YOUR HOUSE SAFE

Home safety precautions are always important, but it is especially important to make your home "accident proof" while it is on the market. Many strangers will be coming through your home that will not be aware of the minor hazards that you and your family instinctively avoid.

Go through your home with an eye for potential hazards. Remove the obstacles that you can and post "watch your head" or "watch your step" signs where they are needed. Look for loose banisters, uneven steps, precariously placed plants, art objects or anything else that could fall on someone, wet spots on bath or kitchen floors, toys that someone might fall over and anything that you have to step over or duck under. Make sure that rugs will not slip, especially those at the bottom of the stairs.

If you take the time to make your home safe for viewing, you will pre-empt any unexpected accidents or mishaps that could discourage potential buyers from purchasing your home.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, contact Cindy Hiebert at Mahoosuc Realty, 207-824-2771
